Eggs of the Plover.

Plovers' eggs will always be found with their points to the center, and are invariably four in number, and if disarranged the mother bird speedily rearranges them. They are among the most difficult to find, for their color harmonizes wonderfully with their surroundings.

Please Look at your Date.

Subscribers will confer a great favor by promptly renewing without making it necessary for us to send out statements. Postage is quite an item of expense where a number of subscribers are involved. There is not much margin of profit in publishing a country weekly paper at only $1.00 a year; in fact most weekly papers are getting $1.50 to $2.00 per year.

We, therefore, will highly appreciate promptness in renewing and remitting for past due subscriptions. The date following your name on the wrapper or on the margin of the first page of your paper indicates the time to which your subscription has been paid. For instance: "Jan11" means that your subscription is paid to the first day of January, 1911., and "Jan10" means that you owe for the paper from the first day of January, 1910; and so with any month or date that may follow your name.

Prompt attention to this matter will be highly appreciated.

Look at your date now; and if behind, please remit amount due.

The report of the commissioner of internal revenue for the last fiscal year shows an increase in the production of whisky, despite the prohibition laws. There were 5,100 violators of the international revenue laws, as compared with 4,089 the year previous, most cases of illicit distilling being reported in "dry" States.

A WINTER DREAM

(A FORECAST)

When the frost has stripped the forest and the autumn leaves lie dead, And the clouds hang cold and heavy in the gray skies overhead, When the wind down in the chimney croons a mournful, winter song, And the snow sprites dance like fairies in a happy, joyous throng, And old Winter is upon us then I like to doze and dream, In a pleasant retrospection, in the firelight's golden gleam.

O, the cozy chimney-corner with its flaming fire aglow, And the spacious, comfy rocker swinging gently to and fro Is a word of satisfaction—is a luxury divine, That I cannot fail to relish in a manner genuine. O, the dreams that come a-trooping, dreams of days of long ago, As I muse and swing my rocker in the firelight's ruddy glow.

Often in the firelight gleaming, wreathed in that same pleased surprise Comes the face I used to worship with its laughter-loving eyes, And the years all fade and fancy takes me back to that glad time When her lips made sweetest music, saying gently, "I'll be thine." Then I turn to one beside me—seems that she divines my dream, For her eyes, still laughter loving, with the love-light glint and gleam.

While old Winter, grim and chilly, is beleaguering our door, In that cozy chimney-corner where the red flames leap and roar, We join hands and go a-strolling down that sweet-flowered lover's lane, Paths we trod in youth together joyously we tread again; Play at sweethearts as we used to, 'neath the willows by the stream, And our hearts knit all the firmer as together thus we dream.

TUBULAR BELL CHIME

The Herschede Hall Clock as a timepiece, a tubular chime, and an article of furniture for home, office, or institution, appeals alike to utility, refinement, and musical taste. The perfect movement insures correctness of time; the solid oak or mahogany case, with classic lines, conforms to good taste; and the melodious tubular chimes, sounding the hours and quarters after the peals of Whittington or Westminster, serve as a pleasing reminder of the passing hour. The fifty styles give ample choice in design, size, and price, all showing the moon's phases in the dial arch. We are sales agents for The Herschede Hall Clock Co. of this city, and will send illustrated catalog on request.

Prices, Wholesale and Retail.

Whether guilty or not guilty, the retailer has been convicted in the court of public opinion of more or less rapacity. At this time the metropolitan newspaper instead of turning its batteries blindly on the packer has actually investigated. At first the retailer asserted that wholesale prices had not been reduced in consequence of depreciation in on-foot values; but the packer threw open his books, furnishing conclusive evidence to the contrary, and the retailer was confronted with journalistic accusation of responsibility.

Retailers of course have a plausible argument to present. Their contention that during the period of high prices they operated on narrow margins is probably true, but it will always be noticed that their charges are peculiarly sensitive to wholesale advances, while subsequent declines exert a tardy influence. Just now the ire of the consumer is aimed at the retailer. Meat users have been apprised that prices on the hoof have slumped, and wholesale quotations reduced accordingly, but comparing this year's bills with last, they are unable to detect commensurate betterment of their condition.

Eventually the disparity between what cattle hogs and sheep cost at the stock yards and prices consumers are required to pay for the product may be eliminated, but it is the most serious problem confronting the trade at present.

WINTER'S APPROACH.

The Autumn leaves are falling fast Beneath the old oak tree; The squirrels and the chipmunks are As happy as can be; Because they worked in Summer days To make the Winter store, To keep them safe from wind and storm, And Winter, cold and hoar. The birds sing now their farewell songs Before they southward fly; The bees have ceased to seek the flowers, Their honey to supply; The lambskins safe in shelter rest; The flowers nod their heads; All Nature whispers sleepily, "King Winter makes our beds."

Then Winter sends his snowflakes down, They come with fairy feet, And make no noise as o'er the flowers They spread their blankets neat. The wind may howl or whistle, or May whisper low and deep. There's not one cares, for safe and sound They've cuddled down to sleep.
